

Condoleezza Rice ordered George Bush not to return to Washington after the 9/11 attacks before hanging up the phone, the former national security adviser has revealed in a documentary interview.

In a heated exchange, Rice argued with the US president in Florida not to return to the White House because it was a potential terrorist target.

She told the Channel 4 documentary: "The president got on the phone and he said: 'I'm coming back.'

"I said: 'You cannot come back here. The United States of America is under attack, you have to go to safety. We don't know what is going on here.'

TVNL Comment: All part of the PNAC plan. Bush was just a decoy...Cheney's people were in charge.
