

"Ten candidates filed lawsuit today," the message continued, as she explained that over the past two weeks she and Pyncheon "watched as [election officials] wheeled cartloads of computers out of the building. Thousands and thousands of votes don't add up...poll tapes in trash and much more."

"This is the most brutal voter disenfranchisement and election tampering case we have witnessed yet," Harris wrote at the BBV website yesterday, before posting the press release issued along with the election contest filed by ten candidates from the August 5th election.
