

The declaration, supported by Prince Albert II of Monaco, builds on findings from an earlier international summit.

More than 150 top marine researchers have voiced their concerns through the "Monaco Declaration", which warns that changes in acidity are accelerating.

More...