

New friendly fire coverup: Army shreds files on dead soldiers

Thursday, 20 November 2008 13:29 - Last Updated Thursday, 20 November 2008 13:32

Last month, Salon published a story reporting that U.S. Army Pfc. Albert Nelson and Pfc. Roger Suarez were killed by U.S. tank fire in Ramadi, Iraq, in late 2006, in an incident partially captured on video, but that an Army investigation instead blamed their deaths on enemy action. Now Salon has learned that documents relating to the two men were shredded hours after the story was published.

More+ Video....