

President Trump on Thursday lauded an Iran deal he said could be signed as soon as this weekend. As Iranian state media leaked what it said were details of the deal on Friday, Trump sounded a warning.

“The terms that Iran leaked out to the Fake News have NOTHING to do with the terms that were agreed to, in writing,” Trump wrote in a Truth Social post.

“What they said, including their weak and pathetic statement on having a deal, bears no relation to the truth,” he continued, calling the Iranians “very dishonorable people to deal with.”

“They better get their act together, and FAST!” he wrote.

Soon after that, Iranian Foreign Minister Abbas Araghchi said a deal “has never been closer” urged the media to “refrain from entering speculation about its content” until it’s finalized, in a post on X.
